

Think of a time someone was kind to you when they did not have to be.

Don't say it out loud yet. Just hold it for a moment.

NICE - pleasant, easy, keeps the peace. KIND - wants what is good for you, even when it is hard.

They are not the same word.

A new student is sitting alone at lunch. Everyone already has their group. Sitting with them means leaving your seat with your friends.

What does nice do here? What does kind do?

Kindness almost always costs something
- your time, your comfort, your seat,
looking cool.

That cost is not a bug. It is the point.

Most real kindness gets no credit. No one claps. Sometimes no one even knows it was you.

Would you still do it?

This week: do one kind thing that no one will ever credit you for. Tell no one you did it.

Then notice how it feels.

On your paper, just for you: who is one person it is hard for you to be kind to? What is one small kind thing you could do for them this week?

No one will read this but you.

Kindness you have to force yourself into is still real kindness.

Start there. Start with the hard person. Start this week.
